

INDIGENOUS EARTH DEFENDERS have put out an urgent call for international solidarity and Amazon Watch, the National Articulation of the Indigenous Peoples of Brazil (APIB), and Extinction Rebellion are mobilizing a Global Day of Action for the Amazon on September 5, 2019.

ON “AMAZON DAY” - SEPTEMBER 5TH - we call on the global community to take to the streets and demonstrate. Protests should continue to be directed at Brazilian embassies and consulates, but also it's time to name names and hold the global corporations profiting from Amazon destruction accountable for their complicity.

Protecting forests and upholding the rights of Indigenous people is one of the most effective defenses we have against climate breakdown.

This is where we draw the line. We've had enough of companies promising they care about the environment while continuing to drive forest destruction. They need to act now - while there are still forests left to protect.

We are living through a climate emergency.

Short term profiteering and Business-as-Usual is over. We demand you stop profiting from environmental destruction and start protecting our planet.
